The Business Overhead Expense policy provides individual business overhead expense reimbursement protection. This coverage allows a small business to meet its everyday expenses even while the owner is disabled. This way, the business remains viable until the owner can return to work, or allows time for an orderly decision regarding the future of the business.

Client markets

Exclusions
Benefits are not paid for disabilities due to:
- An act or accident of war
- Normal pregnancy or childbirth, but we do cover complications of either of these

Optional benefits
- Additional covered overhead expense rider — This additional coverage, which is added to your base coverage, is payable for up to 180 days. The elimination period is the same as the elimination period for your base coverage.
- Extended partial disability injury and illness benefit rider — This benefit allows you to extend the built-in partial benefit from three to six months.
- Residual disability benefit rider — After you have satisfied the elimination period, this benefit provides overhead expense coverage when, as a result of an injury or illness, you are under the regular and personal care of a physician and your covered fixed expenses, plus cost of goods sold or services, exceed your business or profession gross monthly earned income by $200.

If you become HIV impaired or hepatitis impaired and due to your impairment you meet one of the conditions of the rider, you will be considered disabled.
